By ARTHUR
MAJOR DARWIN, son of the great scientist, head of a British society that seeks to improve the human race by careful breeding, advocates forbidding more than two children in poor families and forbidding children entirely among the aristocracy.

The rich whose doctors tell them how to avoid having children have few as a rule. But there is no need to worry about death of population. Some things drive vision past beyond man's reach.

Major Darwin's plan for limiting poor families to two children would have kept Carlyle, Napoleon, Casanova and many a great out of the world.

Royalty and wealth have their children at the beginning, while the husband is still interested in the wife.

Poverty has its best children later in life, when the husband

BRAVES LOSE 8-7; RED SOX LOSE 9-1 Montreal-Boston Train Wrecked GUP SKELETON OF 3 GIRL

LYNN MAAS AMONG 3 INJURED AS FAST HUB EXPRESS HOPS TRACK

George W. Tapper of Lynn, S. B. Tilden of Roxbury, Vt., and W. C. Carver, Montreal, Que., Pullman porter, were injured and scores of sleeping passengers shaken up and bruised when seven cars of the Montreal-Boston flyer dived here at 7:30 a. m. left the rails at Gerrish, N. H., early today.

Heading through the darkness at high speed, the fast train apparently struck a sunken rail, but fortunately the derailed cars were not overturned.

A relief train was dispatched from Concord with physician, but it was found there was very little need for their services, according to officials of the railroad.

Two wrecking trains were also sent.

THIS LITTLE 'MOTHER' WANTS BABY AS DOLL

Ten-year-old Muriel Hauner of Yonkers longed so much for a "real live dollie" that she wrote to Bellevue Hospital in an attempt to claim a foundling baby. She signed her name with a "Mrs." Health department officials then told her to wait until she is grown up. In the meantime, she must amuse herself with her many pets.

ROXBURY HOTEL YARD VICTIM'S SKULL WAS PIERCED BY BULLET

The bones of a girl, some of which had been saved, with a bullet hole in the skull, were dug up today in the rear of the Hotel Elliot, No. 63 Bartlett street, Roxbury.

The bones of the arms and lower leg were missing, but all the others were present, including a full set of teeth in a good state of preservation.

In the box also was a bit of metal resembling the flange of a woman's pocketbook, the bridge of a stringed instrument, probably a balalaika or mandolin, and two pieces of ivory tusk.

SEARCH FOR COUPLE
Petrolman John J. Valenconour of Division 19 was notified, and an investigation was started which it is expected will reveal the girl was murdered, her body thrown into the hole, and the bones then buried into the soil.

Wives are searching for a Mr. and Mrs. LaPolle, who lived in the hotel up to a year and a half ago, when they separated and dropped out of sight.

CODMAN AND WHEELER BLAZE WITH BIG GUNS

Washington, April 24.—Julian Codman of Boston and Warren R. Wheeler, counsel for the Anti-Saloon League, closed their arguments in the Senate hearing on bills to modify the Volstead act today and the hearing continued into history.

"Only a fanatic can believe that the drinking of wine, beer and spirits in moderation is a sin," Mr. Codman said. "Only an ignorant believes that people can be made moral by legislative act."

"Law or no law, so long as the demand continues, no way of satisfying it will be found."

Summing up the evidence the law presented, Codman told the committee that it showed:

"That since 1920 when the Volstead Act went into effect, drinking and drunkenness have increased throughout the whole country."

YOUNG DRUG STORE THUGS IN 3 HOLDUPS

While police hunted them from one end of the State to the other, two youths, believed to be the slayers of Petrolman Frank Comenau, struck three in rapid succession in Boston and Cambridge, holding up a garage and drug store in Dorchester and the Cambridge Gas Light plant.

They were foiled in the Cambridge robbery, where the loot they sought was more than $2,000, by the tardiness of the paymaster, who arrived just as the thugs were making their escape from employees of the plant, who all but caught them.

Business and precision marked all the hold-ups. The youths got $25 in the drug store at No. 1913 Dorchester avenue, where they backed out.

Try Christianity to Curb Crime in U.S. Is Appeal by Radio

Los Angeles, April 24 (Universal).—"We have tried everything else to curb crime in the United States, now let us try Christianity."

Dr. Charles A. Shreve, former pastor of the McKim Presbyterian Episcopal Church, Washington, D. C., in a radio address called upon Christians of the world to take heed of the words of William Randolph Hearst as expounded in the editorial "We Can Cure Crime Only With a Practical Application of the Principles of Christianity."

Dr. Shreve spoke before a crowded audience. "When he said that he hoped Mr. Hearst's words 'would be the saving shot of a campaign that would be heard round the world,' his audience applauded and shouted 'Amens.' The entire sermon was broadcast over American radio, Station KFSB.

In opening his sermon, Doctor Shreve asked how many of those present had read the editorial. More than one-third raised their hands. For the benefit of those who had not read it, Doctor Shreve gave a short resume.

"On April 9," he said, "there appeared in the Los Angeles Examiner a remarkable editorial, written by William Randolph Hearst and entitled, 'We Can Cure Crime Only With a Practical Application of the Principles of Christianity.' At the outset he quoted several passages from the sermon on the Mount and claimed that the failure to apply the principles of Christianity is the cause for the appalling lawlessness of the day and the apparent breakdown of our methods of dealing with crime."

country in a most appalling manner.

"That the character of drinking has greatly changed for the worse with alcohol in the form of whiskey, gin and tonics and moonshine now drunk in place of the beer of earlier days."

"That corruption exists upon a scale so colossal that it makes one tremble for the security of our institutions."

"That women and children in this country drink as never before."

He concluded with a warning that to attempt a more drastic enforcement law in the great cities would tend to "increase the crime side of resentment and can end only in one way."

In the words of President Coolidge, he said, "any attempt to convince the body when the need is to convince the soul, will fail in the end."

Turning up for the drys, Wheeler said the wetts were not united in their methods for getting high power liquor nor in their reasons for doing it.

DIG AT WETTERS. While not mentioning Gov. Lincoln C. Andrews, dry law enforcement chief, by name, Mr. Wheeler took issue with his opinion that the sale of such beer under restrictions might aid in law enforcement.

"That notice was served on the wetts that their only hope for getting high liquor was to meet the law enforcement."

"I do not believe it is possible for the wetts ever to succeed in winning such an attack," Wheeler said. "The 13,000,000 women who represent the vast majority of the population, the church, the legislature and the temperance movement, the economic aspects showing the value of prohibition to the people generally, have testified that this nation prefers prohibition with its accompaniments of lowered crime rates, decreased crime and drunkenness, and widespread prosperity and happiness to the vice, crime and corruption which would mark the brewers' return to power."

WANTS REVENUE'S SCALP. Opposing the suggestion of United States Attorney General of New York for the trial of petty prohibition cases without jury, Wheeler declared "the better plan would be to appoint a district attorney in each of the New York like those who have testified before the committee from Chicago and Cleveland, who instead of recanting why the law is not enforced, have come to work and produced results."

He suggested an increase in the number of Federal district judges, and declared Butler's estimate of eighty-five additional judges and $75,000,000 a year for prohibition enforcement in New York altogether too high.

Brig. Gen. Andrews, prohibition enforcement chief, was summoned again as one of the final witnesses for the drys, but before he took the stand the committee heard Russell Lee Pratt, of Hartford, Ct., chairman of the Yale News, deny directly testimony about confidentiality to the university previously given by Professor Irving Fisher, chief of the drys.

Pratt was on the stand but a few minutes. He took oath to the correctness of a statement published in the Yale News, that Yale students had voted four to one against prohibition, and that drinking at the college was on the increase.

This testimony was corroborated by Greeley Stuart, Jr., of Portland, Maine, editor of the News. Both witnesses said students had difficulty in getting whiskey at regular stores.

"From the bootleggers," Stuart said.

Professor Fisher then took the stand. He said he did not question the sincerity of the students, but added that if the committee wanted to get at the facts as to drinking at Yale now and before prohibition, it should not turn to present students, who were about eleven years old when prohibition became effective.

"Only a little over 50 per cent. of the faculty voted that drinking

In R. R. Wreck

General Andrews in his testimony again urged enactment of pending administration measures to strengthen the Volstead act. He reviewed the "marked airline" in local enforcement in localities which he did not mention.

"When you were on the stand a few days ago you were asked a question about the sale of non-intoxicating beer," said Chairman Harbord. "Now I want to ask a practical question. That is, whether you think the feasibility of such beer could be possible without increasing the difficulty of enforcement of prohibition?"

"I had in mind the home consumption of non-intoxicating beer or a consideration in bona fide hotels," Andrews replied. "I said the question of distribution was vital. I said the sale of beer in saloons would be disastrous."

"You did not mean to advocate a change of the law for the sale of such beer?"

"You do not mean to change your testimony from the other day?" asked Senator Reed.

"No, sir."

ence as No. 302, left Montreal at 8:25 o'clock last night and was speeding along on the last lap of the journey when the accident occurred at 4:30 near the Geriatric station.

Seven cars, consisting of two occupied sleepers, two empty sleepers, a baggage car, a coach-motor and a business car, were left with a series of jares and bumped along for several hundred feet over the rails before the engines could bring the train to a stop.

Shocking passengers were sent hurtling from their berths to the aisle, with the exception of Tupper and Tilden, whose backs were hurt, no one reported injuries.

The derailment took place on the main line of the Boston & Maine, northern division, on whose rails the train was to have finished its trip after traveling over the lines of the Central Vermont and the Canadian National Railway.

Witnesses stated the work of repairing the cars on the tracks and an investigation was begun by officials of the Boston & Maine.

Tupper, who arrived at North Station with several other passengers from the wrecked train, is a government relief inspector, and was returning to his brother's home at No. 430 Essex street, Lynn, from Wiscasset.

He said that he was treated by a physician sent out from Concord by the railroad, who bandaged his body in the belief that he had two fractured ribs.

Tupper refused to discuss the accident, other than to say he was asleep when the derailment of the train threw him from his berth.

A. R. Rice of Amesbury, a student at Norwich University, who was also a passenger, said that practically all the occupants of berths were thrown to the aisle and bedding was tossed about.

Rice said that despite the shock and surprise there was very little excitement on the train who crew their lives to the fact that the derailment took place at North Station, where a short distance farther along the line, at which place the cars would have gone into the river.

While no official statement was forthcoming, it was said that a truck of the forward car dropped down, tearing up one of the rails.

The small station at Geriatric was thrown open, a fire was built in the stove and the passengers crowded into the waiting room until the relief train arrived.

and according to neighbors was a musician.

The unmarked skull was small and well shaped, and a bullet hole pierced it in the right temple. The "case" was also small, and the right thigh bone showed clear evidence of having been severed by a saw. There were also spots of blood on the wrapping paper.

The box was dug up by Joseph Armstrong and his son, John J. Armstrong, who were cleaning up the pit, which adjoins the cellar of the hotel. Two windows in the cellar open on the pit. One of them the police say was covered with curtains, but the other appeared to have been opened more recently.

NO GUILT MISSING.

Backing up to the hotel is the Norfolk House, now the home of social settlement workers, but previously occupied by single girls. Up to two years ago the yards of the Norfolk House and the hotel were not separated, but at that time a wire fence was erected.

The hotel was erected thirty years ago, at which time the district was an exclusive residential section. The police of Division 10 have no record of a missing girl and a corpse of the neighborhood was fruitless.

The bones were turned over to Medical Examiner Timothy J. Leary and taken to the Southern Mortuary.

Mussolini Battling Gamely to Ward Off Death

ROXBURY TRAGEDY

VICTIM OF BAFFLING SICKNESS

Digestive Disorder Causes Intense Suffering to the Master of Italy

Basle, Switzerland, April 24 (A. P.).—Having apparently successfully checkmated Communism, which threatened to get a stranglehold on the Italian body politic, Benito Mussolini, master of Italy, now is waging a battle against a sinister enemy that seeks to destroy him.

Mussolini is a sick man. This was learned during a visit to Rome by a special correspondent of the Associated Press.

WORKS LONG HOURS
No attempt, however feeble, to paint a faithful picture of the extraordinary situation which now prevails in Italy would be complete without an endeavor to show how Mussolini's valiant resistance to the malady has given him a life place in the hearts of the Italian people.

Suffering from an ailment which has attacked his digestive organs, Mussolini works longer hours than any man in Italy. He attends necessary official luncheons or dinners, he parades only of milk or beefsteak, while others about him sip tea to the full the rich repasts placed on the board in front of them.

But Mussolini never complains, even to his intimates. When alone in his apartment after a strenuous day of physical and mental effort in directing affairs of state, his body racked by excruciating pains, he takes from his case an old violin he has played since youth and by soft strains of music, which all Italians so passionately love, he seeks to render untroubled and important his personal misery and his personal danger.

EXHAUSTED N. SPIRIT
Some Italians told the correspondent that his struggle partly explained Mussolini's exaltation of spirit, for he was trying to conquer the disease by making it invulnerable and his incapacity of preventing him from going on his physical condition.

THIEF OF BROOCH GETS HIM ONE YEAR IN JAIL
Arrested after a diamond brooch had been traced to him through pawnshops, Raymond T. Hayford of Chicago, N. Y., was sentenced to one year in the House of Correction in Brooklyn Court today for larceny.

The brooch, valued at $1,000, was stolen from other property from the home of Isaac Shuman, No. 217 Third street, Brooklyn, on February 13.

BEWARE DEFICIT 550 CONFIRMED BY CARDINAL

Washington, April 24 (U.S.N.S.).—President Coolidge delivered an ultimatum today to Congressional leaders that they must resolutely squelch any extraordinary appropriation bills for the remainder of the present session.

Around the White House breakfast table Mr. Coolidge discussed the government's fiscal situation with leaders of the House and Senate and warned them that a deficit is certain next year unless the tax is applied judiciously to some pending bill.

PROBES DEFELOS FOR BEER

Convention Adopts the "Wet" Plank; Senatorial Candidate Brennan Heads Anti Ticket

Springfield, Ill., April 24 (U.S.N.S.).—Proclaiming prohibition as the outstanding issue in the State and nation, Illinois Democracy was on record today in favor of light wine and beer.

Modification of the prohibition law was adopted as the keynote plank of the State platform during a lively session of the Illinois Democratic Convention here.

Richard drops from downtown districts opposed the wet plank with a flood of vitriolic oratory, but the Brennan given police support over after they became ill refused to sign their certificates, and the medical examiner advised an autopsy. Investigations also were started by the police and the district attorney.

Both infants were thrown into a mixture of alcohol and water, which was given to the babies quiet. Two doctors who attended the children denied certificates, and the medical examiner advised an autopsy. Investigations also were started by the police and the district attorney.

Miss Lillian Herndon, who administered the mixture, had been in the hospital only two weeks. She came here from Savannah, Ga. Frank H. Moore, who conducted the hospital, said he was a doctor of philosophy before coming to this country. He had never studied medicine.

WAS HEAD OF AUTO SALES GENIUS

Returned Recently From Sea Trip and Seemed to Be in the Best of Spirits

Auditors were called in today to check up the books, records and equipment of the J. W. Maguire Company, Pierce-Arrow agents, at No. 620 Common wealth avenue, according to officials of the concern, as a result of the suicide of the president, William F. Davis.

A complete verification of assets and survey of the financial condition of the company will be made, it was announced. No reason could be ascertained by the officials for president's suicide, who said business has been exceptionally good recently.

Davis' suicide with a revolver which he was wont to use to kill rats in the company's garage, came as the climax to a romantic business career. His wife, who lived with him from humble circumstances to a life of ease and luxury, was shot today at her home, No. 749 Commonwealth avenue.

While four-year-old William Davis was trying in vain to console his mother, her brother, Thomas Hunter, Jr., of Roxbury, told how Davis, starting as an office boy with the Maguire concern at the age of sixteen, married Irene Hunter, a bank Bay Exchange telephone operator, two years later and shortly worked his way up the ladder of success.

Returning from a trip for his health to the West Indies, he told Hunter that he felt better than ever before in his life. His brother-in-law, however, says his suicide to a condition that his health was fundamentally impaired and that at 33 years of age he had lost his career. He was physically unusual to perform his duties well enough.

WEISBORD BLOCKS PEACE PARLEY IN MILL STRIKE

Pasadena, N. J., April 24 (A.P.).—Settlement of the strike of 10,000 textile workers seemed as remote today as when the strike started four weeks ago. Governor Moore's Mediation Board announced it will act as soon as "barring facilities can agree on procedure."

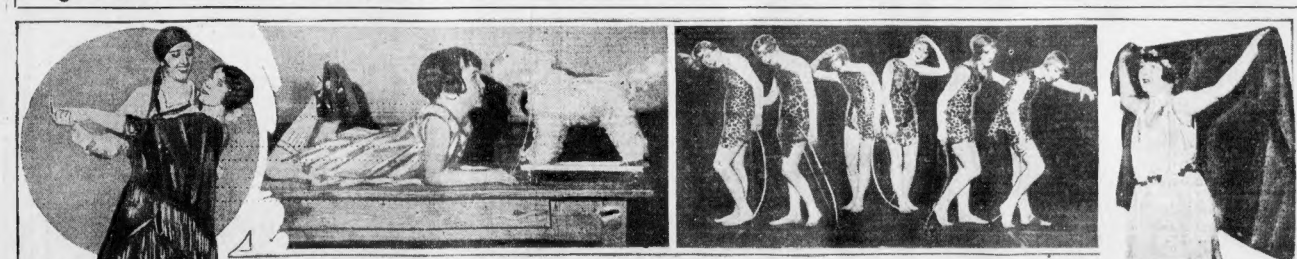

Albert Weisbord, young Harvard graduate, leader of the strikers, proved the obstacle to the meeting of mediators. Governor Moore, who is a member of the Mediation Board, asked off the scheduled opening session for strikers when he learned Weisbord intended to attend.

In announcing the appointment of a mediation board, the Governor had made it clear that he would not treat with Weisbord.

ABIE BREAKS RUN RECORD FOR HUB

Beginning Monday evening at the little Square Theatre, Anne Chase's "Abie's Irish Rose" has won the third and record-breaking week for long runs in the City of Boston.

Since the premier of "Abie" in the city, it has served two purposes—that of again placing the little Square Theatre back among the city's prominent theatres, and notwithstanding the fact that the seating capacity of this house is the largest of any legitimate theatre in the town, adds to the Boston Opera House. It has been the scene of enormous crowds, for in the first sixteen weeks of the run of the play, 1,000,000 were turned away nightly, a house having been sold weeks advance.

A recapitulation of the number of patrons of Boston and vicinity who have seen "Abie" has estimated that this play has been seen by more than three hundred thousand people during its run here. The next run heretofore made by any theatrical production, either musical or dramatic, was that of "The Girl Who Played a Piano" in 1924.

The management of "Abie" is the more phenomenal from the fact that it entered a theatre out of the theatrical district which for a number of years had been numbered among the theatrical properties beyond recall.
